It is with much gratitude that I write this letter of commendation for the outstanding contribution that school 1520 has made to the success enjoyed by Cambridge English Examinations in Russia. The support that your school has given to this endeavour is only surpassed by the professionalism of your English Language Department and the dedication to quality teaching that has been its hallmark.

To this end, I would be most remiss if I were not to highlight the outstanding contribution that Vita Viktorovna Kirichenko, Director of School 1520, has made to the success enjoyed by her school, its teaching staff and students. Too often, we forget that behind every great endeavour there is an equally great person. Today, I congratulate Ms Kirichenko, one of these great people. You are truly the embodiment of the Cambridge ethos and its motto Hinc lucem et pocula sacra or 'From this place, we gain enlightenment and precious knowledge'. You are to be highly commended for a job well done.

Yours most sincerely,

Robert Jensky
